Hongkong, December 3rd, 1896.

The following is the programme of the Hongkong Chess Club for the current month:-

Monday, 7th November.

MARRIED & SINGLE.

Single game match at chess odds.

Competitors to send in their names to the Secretary with the information whether they are married or not.

Monday, Thursday and Monday, 14th, 17th and 21st December. Ginco Piano Match.

The Ginco Piano opening compulsory.

Members of the same class to play against each other, best out of three games. Entries to be sent in previously.

Last week Under Thirty-five defeated Over Thirty-five as I anticipated a fortnight ago, but I have not received details as to the result of individual games. The Ginco Piano opening which is to govern the forthcoming match is this:-

White. Black.

1. P-K4 P-K4

2. Kt-K3 K-Q3

3. B-B4 B-B4

And White may now play P-Q3, P-B3, Kt-B3 or Castles. Stanton says of this opening that though less attacking than many others, it is one perfectly safe for both players, and usually produces games of the most solid and instructive kind. Gunsberg considers it an ideal opening for a player understanding the active principle of development. In it after several moves, each player stands upon his own merits, and there are no traps into which a player may fall.

I give below a very interesting game from the Budapest tourney and a bright little Alligator from the Times. The latter is especially pretty, while the steady crushing play of Pillsbury in the former shows that he has quite recovered from the indisposition that caused him to take so low a rank at Nuremberg.

The Chess Editor of The Times echoes a complaint from the Australian against those Colonial (Why Colonial?) chess columns which reprint (i.e. steal) 'original' or specially prepared material. Now this accusation is worth considering. The matter of a chess column may broadly be said to consist of three things—Problems, Games and Paragraphs. For my own part, I see no sin in cheating a problem, and solvers would not thank me if I published the source from which I took it. A distinctly unfair element of chance would be imported into the problem-solving competition if Chess editors were expected to acknowledge the sources from which they took their problems. Thus, as to games, I came across a game in three prominent English papers with identical notation in each journal, and I published that game in the China Mail merely abridging the son's what diffusive notes. To whom should I have acknowledged indebtedness? As to the third matter, my conscience, though by no means clear, gives me no uneasiness, but I can see no commensurate advantage to compensate for the inconvenience. A short paragraph of mine a few weeks ago involved reference to the Encyclopedia Britannica, to Bird's Chess Novelties and two other works, but it did not seem to me at all difficult to quote authorities for the opinions expressed.

As far as I am concerned, the world is welcome in any paragraph found in this column. I sign mine of them, and do not purport to distinguish in any way between what I compose myself and what I take from books or other papers. A news item once published because it was newsworthy, and if I print a Budapest game that was published first in the papers, I am not publishing it as my own.

Game No. 53.
(Played at Budapest).

White (Pillsbury). Black (Walbrodt).

33. P-Q3 P-Q3

(n). Tichgorin is a student position with Janowski, played the 'other' moves of P-BP, 10 B-P, P-K4, 11 P-Q5 etc. In the way Walbrodt played, he made three moves with his Kt, giving Pillsbury time to concentrate his attack.

(b). Kt-B3 seems to be better.

(c). Kt-K4 is preferable. After this he has no chance of recovery.

(d) And Black is dead after a few more moves.

THE CHINESE MAIL.

報日字華

(Wah Tin Yat Po)

THIS paper is now issued every day.

The subscription is fixed at Five Dollars per annum delivered in Hongkong, or Eleven Dollars Forty Cents including postage to Coast ports.

It is the first Chinese Newspaper ever issued under purely native direction. The chief support of the paper is of course

derived from the native community, amongst whom it is found to be of great value, and it is therefore necessary to place it on a business and legal footing.

The projectors, basing their estimates

upon the most reliable information from the various Ports in China and Japan,—

from Australia, California, Singapore, Peking, Saigon, and other places frequented

by the Chinese,—consider themselves justified

in guaranteeing a large and ever-increasing circulation. The advantages offered to advertisers are therefore unusually great, and the foreign community generally will find it to their interest to avail themselves of them.

The field open to a paper of this description—conducted by native efforts, but progressive, and anti-obscure in tenor—is almost limitless. It is on the one hand demands Chinese belief and interest,

while on the other it deserves every aid

that can be given to it by foreigners.

The English journals are to be found in the 'Lanchester,' 'Shipping,' and 'Commercial

News and Advertiser.'

Subscriptions for the above may be sent to
